Guidelines for good results

- ▶ To widen the search for a term or a date use the symbols ? or *. ? replaces one character, * replaces 0 to n characters. These two symbols can only be used in the middle or at the end of the searched word, never at the beginning.
Example: t?ansport* will find transportation, transporting, etc.
- ▶ A search term can be a single word or a string of words.
- ▶ Use a comma ',' between the terms or expressions in a search to get the documents that contain at least one of those terms or expressions.
Example: transport, energy returns documents that contain either the word 'transport', the word 'energy' or both of these words.
- ▶ Use WITH to restrict the search to documents that contain all the terms or expressions specified.
Example: transport WITH energy restricts the search to documents that contain both these terms.
- ▶ Use EXCEPT to exclude from the search documents that contain certain words.

■ About the Official Journal

- ▶ The Official Journal (OJ), published daily in 23 languages, consists of the L series (legislation) and the C series (resolutions, recommendations, guidelines and opinions/information/preparatory acts/notices/announcements). The documents included in the C series are partly published only electronically.
- ▶ The L and C series were introduced in 1968, until then there was a single series. Some databases used the letters B or P to distinguish this single series from series L and C. The letters B and P do not form part of the official publication reference.
- ▶ The Supplement S to the OJ (calls for tenders) is published in the TED database.
